Good morning Section 47F

I hope you've been well. Please find attached a proposed agenda for our meeting next Wednesday 15 February. We're hoping to have a short update from Google and I've proposed a few topics we'd be interested in hearing about. If, however, you feel any of these would be best covered as a standalone meeting or in a written brief then we're of course happy to help arrange this. Also happy to receive advice on who from your team would be best to lead on the Google update.

Once confirmed, I'll include the agenda in our calendar appointment.
Many thanks for your help and please don't hesitate to let me know if you have any questions or concerns, I'd be glad to discuss them.

Kind regards,

Good afternoon all,

The Australian Electoral Commission are currently preparing for the proposed referendum on a Voice to Parliament, currently being considered by Government.

Given it could take place in the second half of this year, and we enjoyed productive engagement in the lead up to the recent federal election, the AEC are interested in scheduling an initial meeting with Google to highlight the change in scope between these two events.

I've noted one potential meeting times below that would work for the AEC;

- Wednesday, 15 February 10:00am -11:00am

If you could advise, if this window would suit yourselves and/or other Google representatives, I'll make arrangements for a Microsoft Teams meeting. Of course, very glad to discuss alternative times if the above option don't suits. Should you happen to be in Canberra and available, you would of course be welcome to join us here at the National Office for the meeting.

A proposed agenda will follow – but happy to work with you on any specific items you may wish to raise.

We appreciate the opportunity to confirm our continued collaboration and look forward to hearing from you soon.

Kind regards,
