Taskforce Advice Provides Assurance on 2022 Federal Election

The Board of the Electoral Integrity Assurance Taskforce (the Taskforce) has provided formal advice to the Australian Electoral Commissioner, Tom Rogers, following return of the writs for the 2022 federal election.

“The Board has advised Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign interference, or any other interference, that compromised the delivery of the 2022 federal election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the results of the election,” Mr Rogers said.

Protecting the integrity of Australia’s electoral processes is critical to maintaining public trust in Australia's democracy. “The work of the Taskforce plays a vital role in protecting and preserving Australia’s electoral integrity and I am pleased to be able to share this advice with all Australians,” Mr Rogers said.

ELECTORAL INTEGRITY ASSURANCE TASKFORCE

26 July 2022

Headline Statement

Protecting the integrity of Australia's electoral processes is critical to maintaining public support and trust in Australia's democratic process.

The Electoral Integrity Assurance Taskforce (the Taskforce) and the Taskforce Board (the Board) are constituted by relevant agencies across Federal Government, working together to provide information and advice to the Electoral Commissioner on matters that may compromise the real or perceived integrity of the federal election.

The Taskforce was stood up for the 2022 federal election and operated at an increased service level to respond to threats and to maintain and promote electoral integrity.

Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign interference, or any other interference, that compromised the delivery of the 2022 federal election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the results of the election.

SUMMARY

- Risks to electoral integrity can arise through multiple threats, including cyber or physical security incidents, disinformation, misinformation, and perceived or actual foreign interference in electoral processes.
- The Taskforce is responsible for assessing, understanding and mitigating these risks and, if required, providing relevant advice and information to the Electoral Commissioner.
- Public confidence in the integrity of elections can be undermined by the realisation or perceived realisation of these threats to electoral integrity. The Taskforce uses a referral process to ensure information is passed to the relevant agency to consider appropriate action.
- Taskforce agencies operate within their existing remits and resources to support the operation of the Taskforce.

Section 22

2022 Federal Election

- The Taskforce was stood up by the Board ahead of the 2022 federal election. Members convened and prepared to respond to any threats to electoral integrity which could arise throughout the election period.
- In the lead up the 2022 federal election, the Taskforce engaged in several preparatory activities, including agreeing on collaborative incident management and governance documentation, and partaking in test scenarios to trial processes.
- Once the federal election was announced, the Taskforce co-located operations to enable effective cross-government engagement and collaboration on matters that may have compromised the real or perceived integrity of the federal election.
- The Board provided the following advice to the Electoral Commissioner on 26 July 2022 regarding the 2022 federal election:
  - Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign interference, or any other interference, that compromised the delivery of the 2022 federal election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the results of the election.

Good afternoon EIAT Board

Following the your agreement on a statement regarding the integrity of the 2022 federal election, Mr Pope, in his capacity as Board Co-Chair, wrote to the Electoral Commissioner to provide him with the Board's advice. Mr Rogers has today approved the recommendation to accept the advice and publish a media release to inform the public of this outcome.

Please see the attached advance copy of a media release from the Electoral Commissioner, which will be published to the AEC website at approximately 4pm today 26 July 2022.

Also included for your reference, are whole of government talking points, updated to reflect this statement and the return of the writs for the 2022 federal election.

Thank you for all of your contributions in reaching this milestone.

Good afternoon all,

As discussed in our meetings over the last two weeks, AEC election operations are ongoing. We are pleased to have declared the first of 151 House of Representatives seats yesterday (Eden-Monaro) and have more scheduled for this afternoon and early next week. Our staff around the country are otherwise working hard to progress Senate counts and return the Writs by 28 June 2022.

The Secretariat is preparing to table a draft EIAT Statement for the 2022 Federal Election to our meeting on Tuesday, however the wording, timing and placement of which needs our careful consideration. No statement from or on behalf of the EIAT will be signed off on until an appropriate point in the election cycle.

We ask that you remind your staff to refrain from providing public comments on or assessment of the integrity of the event outside of this process. Should individual circumstances require, we're happy to discuss what might be suitable for your intended audience.

Regards

JP

Hi team

We have been asked to draft a media release with a statement from the Electoral Commissioner regarding advice from the EIAT Board – please see attached.

Seeking consultation and your input on the draft. Proposed publication date is early in the w/c 18 July and it requires approval from Matt, Michael Lynch, Jeff Pope and Tom, so we have a short turnaround – sorry!

Can this be returned by COB Monday 11 July? Happy to discuss and apologies.

Electoral Integrity Assurance Taskforce advice to Electoral Commissioner on 2022 Federal Election

The Board of the Electoral Integrity Assurance Taskforce (the Taskforce) has provided formal advice to the Australian Electoral Commissioner, Tom Rogers, following return of the writs for the 2022 federal election.

Mr Rogers said, “the Board has advised Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign interference, or any other interference, that compromised the delivery of the 2022 Federal Election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the results of the election.”

Protecting the integrity of Australia’s electoral processes is critical to maintaining public trust in Australia’s democracy. “The work of the Taskforce plays a vital role in protecting and preserving Australia’s electoral integrity and I am pleased to be able to share this advice with all Australians”, Mr Rogers said.

EIAT 2022 Federal Election Statement and Report

Mr Pope opened discussion on the tabled paper regarding the draft EIAT 2022 Federal Election Statement and report outline.

The Board took the tabled paper as read.

- The proposed public EIAT post-election statement:
  - Mr Pope noted that given our current context, the language of the draft statement was modelled on those made at recent federal electoral events.
  - He noted the distinction in choice of words 'no interference in the results of the election' vs 'the process of the election' and stated that his preference is to use the former.
  - Mr Kefford agreed with Mr Pope and the use of the word 'results', noting that this is a clearer and stronger statement.
  - Mr Pope stated that there is an intention to use similar wording for statements for future by-elections and other electoral events.
  - The Secretariat will take comments on the statement and a final version will be discussed at the next board meeting.

VERSION 1.0

Purpose

To provide the Electoral Integrity Assurance Taskforce (EIAT) Board an update on:

- The proposed Federal Election 2022 Draft Statement on Electoral Integrity; and
- The Draft Final Report outline.

Background and Issues

Draft Statement

After each federal electoral event it has had a role in, the EIAT has released a statement commenting on the matters observed through the course of the engagement. Previous statements made by the EIAT are listed below:

2019 Federal Election

The Taskforce agencies did not identify foreign interference, or any other interference that compromised the delivery of the 2019 Federal election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the process

July 2020 Eden-Monaro by-election

Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign, or any other interference that compromised the delivery the Eden-Monaro by-election and would undermine confidence of the Australian people in the result.

November 2020 Groom by-election

Taskforce agencies did not identify foreign interference, or any other interference that compromised the delivery of the Groom by-election that would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the process.

The Draft Statement on Electoral Integrity has been prepared for the 2022 Federal Election and is as follows:

Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign interference, or any other interference that compromised the delivery of the 2022 Federal Election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the results of the election.

Purpose

To outline the process undertaken by the Electoral Integrity Assurance Taskforce (EIAT) Board to determine appropriate advice to provide the Electoral Commissioner on the integrity of the 2022 federal election.

Background

The EIAT is responsible for providing information and advice to the Australian Electoral Commissioner on matters that may compromise the real or perceived integrity of a federal electoral event.

The EIAT worked together throughout the 2022 federal election to detect and respond to potential threats to electoral integrity. Taskforce agencies met daily during the election period, and contributed, within their respective remits, topical information and advice relating to potential threats to electoral integrity.

By sharing and discussing this relevant information and collaborating on approaches to evolving environmental and electoral integrity concerns, Taskforce agencies were well placed to provide assurance to the Board of the sustained integrity of the 2022 federal election.

Key Issues

Following the return of writs for the 2022 federal election, the EIAT Board has curated advice regarding the integrity of the election for the information of the Electoral Commissioner:

Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign interference, or any other interference, that compromised the delivery of the 2022 federal election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the results of the election.

Consultation

The EIAT Board was pleased to endorse this advice in their meeting of 23 June 2022 and provide the Electoral Commissioner with assurance on the integrity of the 2022 federal election.

Recommendations

It is recommended the Electoral Commissioner accept the advice and publish the attached media release on the AEC website to inform the public of this positive outcome.

Clearance Notification

Jeff Pope has approved Minute - EIAT Board Co-Chair to Electoral Commissioner - Advice on 2022FE \(A1822998\). A task has now been assigned to Section 47F for document publication.

Comments from previous task:

Tom, this Minute is approved as my advice to you on behalf of the EIAT about the statement to be made by you regarding the integrity of the result of the 2022 federal election. Should you accept this advice a draft media release is attached for your consideration. Before we publish the media release we will need to give the EIAT Board agencies some prior notice to ensure everyone is aware. I would recommend we publish the media release before cob Wed 27 July. Regards JP

Hi Section 47F(1)

Please see attached the media release – we've changed up the heading to make it more attractive for journalists.

As for the movement of the final sentence, I've changed it back to how you originally had it written as agreed, makes more sense as a precursor.

Also confirming when uploaded to the website, it will reflect the title of the release.

Would be great to be kept in the loop on this one so we know when we need to send it out and liaise with the web team etc.

Re movement of now final sentence from being a precursor to the second quote, is this due to quote best practice / media release writing style specifically? Just think the context of that sentence better places the second quote, however happy to be guided by your judgement of course – just thought I'd ask!

Can I please confirm that the link on the Media release page will reflect the title (as opposed to document name)?

2022 Federal Election free from interference

The Board of the Electoral Integrity Assurance Taskforce (the Taskforce) has provided formal advice to the Australian Electoral Commissioner, Tom Rogers, following return of the writs for the 2022 federal election.

“The Board has advised Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign interference, or any other interference, that compromised the delivery of the 2022 Federal Election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the results of the election.” Mr Rogers said.

Protecting the integrity of Australia’s electoral processes is critical to maintaining public trust in Australia's democracy.

“The work of the Taskforce plays a vital role in protecting and preserving Australia’s electoral integrity and I am pleased to be able to share this advice with all Australians”, Mr Rogers said.

Re the draft statement:

A minor adjustment in red. I am happy to stick with results at the end as the deal with process in reference to 'the delivery of the 2022 Federal Election'.

Happy to discuss if needed.

Hi Jeff,

Of course, no problem. Confirming Matt has spoken with his eq. Section 47F(1), she was pragmatic. Yet to talk with AFP media team as Section 47F(1) is also in the middle of consulting them on our related media release this afternoon (currently with Andrew for review) and want to keep that separate.

Good afternoon all

As discussed in our meetings over the last two weeks, AEC election operations are ongoing. We are pleased to have declared the first of 151 House of Representatives seats yesterday (Eden-Monaro) and have more scheduled for this afternoon and early next week. Our staff around the country are otherwise working hard to progress Senate counts and return the Writs by 28 June 2022. The Secretariat is preparing to table a draft EIAT Statement for the 2022 Federal Election to our meeting on Tuesday, however the wording, timing and placement of which needs our careful consideration. No statement from or on behalf of the EIAT will be signed off on until an appropriate point in the election cycle.

We ask that you remind your staff to refrain from providing public comments on or assessment of the integrity of the event outside of this process. Should individual circumstances require, we're happy to discuss what might be suitable for your intended audience.

EIAT Board Meeting

DRAFT STATEMENT AND OUTLINE OF FINAL REPORT

7 June 2022

Purpose:

To provide the Electoral Integrity Assurance Taskforce (EIAT) Board an update on:

- The proposed Federal Election 2022 Draft Statement on Electoral Integrity; and
- The Draft Final Report outline.

Background and Issues:

Draft Statement

After each federal electoral event it has had a role in, the EIAT has released a statement commenting on the matters observed through the course of the engagement. Previous statements made by the EIAT are listed below:

2019 Federal Election

The Taskforce agencies did not identify foreign interference, or any other interference that compromised the delivery of the 2019 Federal election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the process

July 2020 Eden-Monaro by-election

Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign, or any other interference that compromised the delivery the Eden-Monaro by-election and would undermine confidence of the Australian people in the result.

November 2020 Groom by-election

Taskforce agencies did not identify foreign interference, or any other interference that compromised the delivery of the Groom by-election that would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the process.

The Draft Statement on Electoral Integrity has been prepared for the 2022 Federal Election and is as follows:

Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign interference, or any other interference that compromised the delivery of the 2022 Federal Election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the results of the election.

Section 22

For Decision and Recommendations:

The EIAT requests that:

1. The Board consider the Federal Election 2022 Draft Statement on Electoral Interference contained within this document, with a view to approving this statement at the Board's next meeting, and

Electoral Integrity Assurance Taskforce advice to Electoral Commissioner on 2022 Federal Election

The Board of the Electoral Integrity Assurance Taskforce (the Taskforce) has provided formal advice to the Australian Electoral Commissioner, Tom Rogers, following return of the writs.

Mr Rogers said, "the Board has advised that Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign interference, or any other interference, that compromised the delivery of the 2022 Federal Election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the results of the election."

Protecting the integrity of Australia's electoral processes is critical to maintaining public trust in Australia's democracy. "The work of the Taskforce plays an important role in protecting and preserving Australia's electoral integrity = and this advice is a great outcome for the operation of the Taskforce and for all Australians", Mr Rogers said.

Section 47F and Section 47F went back and fuds a couple of times last week – the release aims to satisfy Tom's request to be the first one to 'say' the EIAT post-election statement. We've ended up with something short and sweet which I am ok with, except for the title.

It is for approval and publishing this week.

Taskforce Advice Provides Assurance on 2022 Federal Election

The Board of the Electoral Integrity Assurance Taskforce (the Taskforce) has provided formal advice to the Australian Electoral Commissioner, Tom Rogers, following return of the writs for the 2022 federal election.

“The Board has advised Taskforce agencies did not identify any foreign interference, or any other interference, that compromised the delivery of the 2022 federal election and would undermine the confidence of the Australian people in the results of the election,” Mr Rogers said.

Protecting the integrity of Australia’s electoral processes is critical to maintaining public trust in Australia's democracy. “The work of the Taskforce plays a vital role in protecting and preserving Australia’s electoral integrity and I am pleased to be able to share this advice with all Australians,” Mr Rogers said.
