Hi Guy – I think my checks are complete, and I assume Mike's are fairly well progressed.

Here are the 30 June 2018 Indigenous-status enrolment rates. These may change if later checks uncover anything else.

They seem nicely consistent with last year, which considering the number of moving parts & methodological complexity I'm rather pleased, relieved and slightly surprised. Mind you, the aligning with published overall state enrolment rate numerators & denominators can tend to disguise problems.

The KPI methodology document I've previously sent you (attached) still applies – in this case the Enrolment Rates section.

Thanks Michael, I'm happy for us to do as much as we can but recognise there are limits. I'm also happy with appropriate caveats being included but it would be best if we can minimise these as much as possible.

.... And as previously discussed, if this is going public then we'll want some carefully worded caveats to indicate the inherent uncertainty around such modelled figures, and their purely indicative nature.

Hi Guy.

Please read this ☺

Can see where you are coming from with the tables below, but the available data will only get us part of the way there.

- The 1st table (2018) should take a day or two's work once we have the data from Mike. Longer if Mike has changed anything.
- The 2nd table (2017) is available now, but not the last column.
 - The last column cannot be calculated because 2016 figures were calculated on a completely different basis (i.e. no Centrelink Indigenous data)
- The 3rd table (2016) should not appear with the 2017 & 2018 data, due, as mentioned in the point above, to it being calculated completely differently thus making any comparisons invalid.

Latest (i.e. 2017) methodology attached.

Cheers

m.

Michael, further to our chat this morning I would ideally like to publish the following data on the website if we can, noting that it may not be possible or involve too much risk. As always, you'll see whatever we propose put up to ELT before we do so you can comment and advise. I understand Tom is keen to have something published by the end of September.
